II. Teacher's three meals

- Teacher shares her three meals and leads the students to do the oral practice.
- Students work in two teams.
- In the first round, students ask the questions and turn around. Then, teacher shows the pictures and students have to look at the pictures and shout out one word.

What do you have for breakfast?

Ms. Wenny

Donuts.

- For the second round, students have to shout out two words.

10

you are team B.

-Ok! Let's ask the question!

-Turn around, please.

-Later, I'll show you the pictures. You have to look at the pictures and shout out the answers.

-In this round, you need to tell me one word.

-This time, you have to shout out two words.

-Ok! Here's the sentence. This time, try to tell me the answer as a sentence.

-Is it good for me?
Is it bad for me?

-Now, you know what kind of food can be good for you!

-For your first mission, you have to design your healthy meals.

-Now, go to your partners. Ask them the questions.

What do you have for breakfast?

Ms. Wenny

Sandwiches and milk.

- For the third and the fourth round, students have to answer the questions as a whole sentence.

What do you have for lunch?

Ms. Wenny

I have salad and spaghetti.

- In each round, after students answer the questions, they can think about whether the food is good for the teacher or not. Then, they can share their ideas.

Ms. Wenny

It's good for Ms. Wenny because...
It's bad for Ms. Wenny because...

III. My healthy meals

- Students first design their healthy meals and write them down on the worksheet
- Then, students can go to different partners and share their healthy meals.

Samantha and Flint are having lunch together! They are talking about their breakfast.

Flint, what do you have for breakfast?

I have chips and soda!

Do you want an apple?

No, thanks! I don't like apples. I like hamburgers and French fries!

One day, Flint is watching TV...

Um... but I like donuts and chips!

Hey! Donuts and chips are bad for you! Eat fruit and vegetables! They're good for you!

That night, when Flint is sleeping. He has a dream...

We're food monsters! Do you like us?

Ah! No! Go away!

On the next morning...

Good morning! Flint! Look, it's your favorite breakfast!

Oh no! I don't want donuts. They're bad for me. I want milk and cereal, please.
